OTHER ACTIVITIES

As well as the varied events and activities detailed in this brochure, Mid-Pennine Arts Association also supports many other local events and activities. This season our work within the education system includes workshops by the Lincoln-based Lynx Dance Company which will take place at Burnley High School and Burnley College and drama/dance work with Barrowford County Primary School.

Our inflatables are travelling widely this summer, going to the Rossendale Playschemes during August, visiting the Howarth Art Gallery Open Day on June 25th, plus many local organisations who will be using them for summer celebrations – St. Mary's School PTA, CRS Ltd., Haslingden Sports Centre, Casterton School, Burnley Youth Theatre, and many more.

MPAA's Arts Team brings creative activities to a wide variety of groups in response to need. Our hospital work now includes Bank Hall as well as Burnley General. Sue is undertaking a regular music programme with geriatric patients, which includes songs old and new, many different instruments and even recitals. Pottery and clay modelling in the Psychiatric section of Burnley General is due to start shortly, initiated by John.

Sue's community placement in Bacup is expanding, in addition to drama, guitar and music work on Fairview Estate (which included an Easter production) Sue has been working with the Folk Club on a recorded work, and with the Unemployed Centre developing music-making on a regular basis. Projected activities this summer include the Compass Centre and Blackthorn Youth Club. Contacts have been established with other community projects in Bacup, and it is hoped that the summer weather will present the opportunity for outdoor activities.

Input to the Nelson Centre for the Unemployed will start shortly. John is initiating silkscreen work there over a four week period, which will enable them to set up their own facilities for screening posters and T-shirts.

On-going projects with the Mencap Centre in Waterfoot and Gannow Community Centre have brought music, drama and puppets to the mentally handicapped.

Following the success of our woodcarving workshops, John is about to commence a long-term project with the Manpower Services Commission staff at Burnley Borough Council. The intention is to teach woodcarving skills through the creation of relief work for parts of park structures, such as shelters, bridges, etc..

The Heritage project is proving an interesting, worthwhile and expanding area of our activities. Oral recollections from elderly people in the Stoneholme and Burnley Wood areas have provided an extra dimension to Frank's research and writing. Publication of the booklet is planned for October/November, to co-incide with a "Heritage" exhibition in our gallery during that period. The booklet also aims at drawing together other publications, organisations and resources which already exist in this field. He is acting, too, as schools' liaison officer for the Friends of the Weavers' Triangle and is "on duty" in the Toll House Museum on Tuesday afternoons.

Our successful touring exhibition, "FORGING AHEAD – The Art of the Blacksmith" will visit the Preston Hall Museum, Stockton-on-Tees and the Preston Polytechnic Arts Centre, Preston, this summer.

MID-PENNINE ARTS ASSOCIATION

A year- round arts service for everyone!

We now have two small photographic documentary exhibitions available for loan. "Take One Fleece", which outlines the processes involved in spinning from fleece to ball of wool, has already visited Higham Primary School under the auspices of the PTA, and will form part of Haslingden Library's exhibition programme this autumn. Both this exhibition and our new one – a photographic addition to "Forging Ahead – The Art of the Blacksmith" – were designed with schools in mind, but we would be delighted to hear from community centres and other organisations who would like to borrow them. Photography for both was done by Neil Arnold, whose exhibition and life photography workshops form part of our summer programme.

Assistance to local organisations takes many forms. We make provision within our publicity budget for advertisements in programmes produced by local societies, thus helping to spread information on our services and at the same time supporting local activities. We offer the expertise of Janet, our Graphic Designer, to groups needing help in designing a poster, and for those needing technical help – Jo, MPAA's Technician, can not only advise, but may be available to help in person. So if your lighting expert has fallen sick, think of us!
